Dr. Fuselier has two great passions in life - his family and the practice of dentistry. As an active and involved dad, his four daughters make his time away from the office a fun adventure. He’s often seen on the deck of the neighborhood pool cheering the girls on as they swim races. He jokes that the family has its own full relay team. In the office he is part of a team that is dedicated to providing compassionate and quality care. He earned his degree in dentistry from Baylor College of Dentistry and his medical degree from the University of Texas Southwestern. Dr. Fuselier brings to the practice an expertise in dental implants and reconstructive surgery, and he is actively involved in research. At home and in the office he is committed to excellence, which works for both teams! Dr. Fuselier practices at our South and La Grange locations.
